Why The Flash does what he does:

AI Overview

Learn more

The Flash, in various iterations, is motivated by a desire to protect others and uphold justice. He is often driven by a sense of responsibility to use his speed to help people in need and fight against those who would do harm. This motivation stems from personal experiences, like the loss of his mother, and a belief in the importance of hope and legacy.

Here's a more detailed look at his motivations:

- Protecting the Innocent:

The Flash's primary mission is to safeguard Central City and other surrounding cities from threats like meta-humans and criminals.

- Justice:

He aims to bring those who commit crimes to justice, ensuring a fair and equitable society.

- Hope and Legacy:

The Flash embodies the idea of moving forward and carrying on, passing down the torch of heroism to future generations.

- Personal Experience:

The tragic events of his past, particularly the loss of his mother, have shaped his desire to protect others and make a difference.

- Strong Relationships:

The love and support from his partner, Iris West-Allen, also fuel his determination to be a hero.
